

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased by 1.2 million (Office for National Statistics 1999). The number of people aged 65 and over is projected to increase to 6.5 million by 2011, and the number of people aged 75 and over to 4.5 million (Office for National Statistics 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people, and a number of initiatives have been developed to address this need. The Department of Health has initiated a number of initiatives, including the 'Age-friendly' initiative, which aims to ensure that older people are able to live independently and safely in their own homes. The 'Age-friendly' initiative has been implemented in a number of areas, including housing, transport, and community services. Luke David Dexter

"I lift my eyes to the hills- where does my help come from? My help comes from the Lord the Maker of heaven and earth."

-Psalm 121:1-2

Jennifer Heerema

"For we are God's handiwork,
created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do."

-Ephesians 2:10

Noah Hoek

"For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven."

-Ecclesiastes 3:1

Alexandria Holm-Hansen

" But when you are tempted, he will also provide a way out so that you can endure it."

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has increased from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion, and the number of people aged 65 and over has increased from 0.2 billion to 0.5 billion (United Nations 1999).

There are a number of reasons why the world population is ageing. One of the main reasons is that the number of people who are dying has decreased. This is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, better nutrition, and a decrease in the number of people who are living in poverty. Another reason is that the number of people who are having children has decreased. This is due to a number of factors, including a decrease in the number of people who are having children at a young age, and a decrease in the number of people who are having children at all.

The world population is ageing, and this is a trend that is likely to continue. This is a challenge for the world, as it means that there will be a need for more people to work and pay taxes to support the growing number of people who are retired. It also means that there will be a need for more people to care for the growing number of people who are aged and infirm. The world must find ways to meet these challenges, or the quality of life for many people will be significantly reduced.

There are a number of ways in which the world can meet these challenges. One way is to increase the number of people who are working and paying taxes. This can be done by encouraging people to work longer hours, and by encouraging people to start working at a younger age. Another way is to increase the number of people who are caring for the aged and infirm. This can be done by encouraging people to care for their own families, and by encouraging people to work in the care industry.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 1999). The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the general population, and the incidence of mental health problems has increased in the prison population.

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the mental health needs of prisoners. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for mental health services, which includes a commitment to improve the mental health of prisoners. The Department of Health (1999) has also published a strategy for mental health services, which includes a commitment to improve the mental health of prisoners.
